

I have been buying Tefco Tripe, Performance Dog, knuckle bones and occasionally hearts from Jerry Briffa for over three years. Jerry is an honest and down to earth man, a real gem. His products are consistently superior. One of my Newfoundland dogs was an extremely finicky eater. I had to switch from a wholistic kibble to raw many years ago, but the previous raw source was frequently smelly with charcoal mixed into it and it was not uncommon to find metal fragments in the meat... scary! My finicky dog ate maybe two meals a week (of twice daily feedings). Once I started my dogs on Tefco Tripe and Performance Dog, this finicky dog began to eat every meal and has not stopped since. Tefco raw food is much better quality, and I am confident my dogs are consuming healthy food. I see the difference in the show ring too, for my dogs coats are more shiny and naturally black compared to most of the competition (who have to add tons of product to get shine).
